6. Учебно-методическое обеспечение самостоятельной работы обучающихся

Усилению практико-ориентированности учебной дисциплины способствуют различные виды самостоятельной работы студентов:

1) выполнение домашних практических заданий;

2) подготовка презентации по темам;

3) повторение разделов программы с целью подготовки к промежуточной аттестации.

Доступ к методическим материалам осуществляется через сайт Шуйского филиала ИвГУ, в том числе через ЭБС Шуйского филиала ИвГУ на платформе «Руконт».

Полностью весь методический материал по обеспечению самостоятельной работы студентов приводится в приложении 1 к Р

7. Характеристика оценочных средств для текущего контроля успеваемости и промежуточной аттестации по дисциплине

Для текущего контроля успеваемости используются разноуровневые задания, которые выполняются самостоятельно. На зачете по дисциплине «Теоретическая грамматика. Английский язык» контролируемые знания, умения и владения, характеризующие этапы формирования компетенций в процессе освоения образовательной программы, проверяются заданиями в тестовой форме (контрольная работа) , используется устная форма проведения зачета, а также рейтинговая (накопительная) система оценивания результатов обучения. Максимальное количество баллов, которое возможно получить на зачете – 30 баллов.

Текущий и промежуточный контроль осуществляется с использованием рейтинговой системы оценивания результатов обучения. Текущий контроль 1 и текущий контроль 2 проводятся в форме теста. Студент может получить по результатам текущей работы оценку «зачтено» при следующих условиях:

- набора не менее 61 балла
- выполнения всех видов работ, предусмотренных программой дисциплины
- успешного прохождения текущего контроля 1 и 2

Если студент не набрал нужного количества баллов (не справился с заданиями текущего контроля/ не выполнил какого-либо вида работу), он обязан явиться на зачет.

Тестирование (контрольная работа) проводится на последнем аудиторном занятии семестра в течение 90 минут. Количество заданий варьируется в зависимости от объема проходимого материала и оценивается по 10-ти балльной шкале:

Критерии оценки:

1-9% выполнения заданий теста – 1 балл
10-19% выполнения заданий теста – 2 балла
20-29% выполнения заданий теста – 3 балла
30-39% выполнения заданий теста – 4 балла
40-49% выполнения заданий теста – 5 баллов
50-59% выполнения заданий теста – 6 баллов
60-69% выполнения заданий теста – 7 баллов
70-79% выполнения заданий теста – 8 баллов
80-89% выполнения заданий теста – 9 баллов
90-100% выполнения заданий теста – 10 баллов

Покажем пример расчета балла студента на примере . Критерий зачета соответствует 56/56. Студент выполнил 43 позиции из 56. 43 делим на 56 =0,76. За тест студент должен получить 10 баллов, таким образом, в данном конкретном случае студент получает 8 баллов из 10.

Устная часть представляет собой диалог между студентом и преподавателем. Студент получает 1 теоретический вопрос, который оценивается в 10 баллов. Второй вопрос экзаменационного билета – дать определение/толкование грамматических терминов и понятий (список 10 терминов на индивидуальной карточке). Максимальное количество баллов за этот вопрос билета – 10 баллов (по 1 баллу за каждый термин). Таким образом, устная часть зачета может быть максимально оценена 20 баллами.

Критерии оценки устного ответа теоретического вопроса:

9-10 баллов ставится за правильный ответ в полном объеме, иллюстрированный убедительными примерами. Студент владеет грамотной, логически верно и аргументировано построенной устной речью, ориентируется в ситуации общения.

- точность ответа – 3 балла
- полнота ответа – 3 балла
- аргументированность, четкость и последовательность изложения материала – 2 балла
- соблюдение норм английского литературного языка при изложении материала – 2 балла

7-8 баллов выставляется за правильный ответ снабженный примерами. Допускается упущение несущественного аспекта лингвистического явления, по которому преподаватель задает вопрос, и студент дает исчерпывающий ответ.

5-6 баллов ставится за неполный ответ, в котором, однако, раскрыта сущность лингвистического явления. На наводящие вопросы преподавателя студент не дает убедительного ответа, допускает отсутствие примеров.

3-4 балла выставляется, если студент может назвать безошибочно только примеры лингвистического явления и не может четко сформулировать его сущность.

1-2 балла ставятся за иллюстрацию языкового явления примерами не в полном объеме.

Критерии оценки:

Оценка результатов освоения дисциплины при рейтинговой системе оценивания формируется по 100-балльной шкале из результатов текущего контроля успеваемости и результатов, полученных на зачете.

Оценка на зачете выставляется по следующей шкале:

Шкала оценки результатов освоения дисциплины «Теоретическая грамматика» при рейтинговой системе оценивания

Повышенный уровень	Базовый уровень	Пороговый уровень	Ниже порогового уровня
Отлично	Хорошо	Удовлетворительно	Неудовлетворительно
85-100 баллов	71-84 балла	61-70 баллов	60 и менее баллов

Фонд оценочных средств по дисциплине «Теоретическая грамматика» в полном объёме представлен в Приложении 2 к рабочей программе.

Студент, набравший в семестре менее 61 балла, на зачете выполняет задания по всем видам задолженностей. (См. «Положение о рейтинговой системе оценивания результатов обучения студентов»)

Пороговый уровень. Студент имеет ограниченные теоретические знания, допускает существенные ошибки при использовании научной терминологии.

Базовый уровень. Студент демонстрирует методологические и теоретические знания, свободно владеет научной терминологией, демонстрирует хорошие аналитические способности, однако допускает некоторые неточности при оперировании научной терминологией.

Повышенный уровень. Студент демонстрирует методологические и теоретические знания, свободно владеет научной терминологией, демонстрирует хорошие аналитические способности, способен при обосновании своего мнения свободно проявлять аналогии между темами курса.

Тема 11 - Linguistics of the Text

1. Define the following notions:

text, coherence, discourse, narrative, description, dialogue, cohesion, reiteration, collocation, anaphora, cataphora, deixis, cumuleme, occurseme, dicteme, binding, topic, stylization, endophoric relations, person deixis, place deixis, temporal deixis, textual deixis, social deixis, absolute deixis, relational deixis.

2. Dwell on the means of cohesion in the given text fragments.

MODEL: Ten minutes later, with face blanched by terror, and eyes wild with grief, Lord Arthur Savile rushed from Bentinck House, crushing his way through the crowd of fur-coated footmen that stood round the large striped awning, and seeming not to see or hear anything. The night was bitter cold, and the gas-lamps round the square flared and flickered in the keen wind; but his hands were hot with fever, and his forehead burned like fire. On and on he went, almost with the gait of a drunken man. A policeman looked curiously at him she passed, and a begger, who slouched from an archway to ask for alms, grew frightened, seeing misery greater than his own. Once he stopped under a lamp, and looked at his hands. He thought he could detect the stain of blood already upon them, and a faint cry broke from his trembling lips.

Murder! That is what cheiromantist had seen there. Murder! The very night seemed to know it, and the desolate wind to howl it in his ear. The dark corners of the streets were full of it. It grinned at him from the roofs of the houses.

First he came to the Park, whose somber woodland seemed to fascinate him. He leaned wearily up against the railings, cooling his brow against the wet metal, and listening to the tremulous silence of the trees. "Murder! murder!" he kept repeating, as though iteration could dim the horror of the word. The sound of his own voice made him shudder, yet he almost hoped that Echo might hear him, and wake the slumbering city from its dreams. He felt a mad desire to stop the casual passer-by, and tell him everything.

(from O.Wild "Lord Arthur Savile's Crime")

The principle means of textual cohesion in this fragment is repetition of different kinds: 1) lexical repetition (repetition of the key word): "Murder! That is what the cheiromantist had seen there. Murder!" the repetition of the pronouns: "he" and "it" (substituting "the murder"), repetition of the words used to describe the background: "night", "dark", "wind"; 2) lexical synonymic repetition: "with the face blanched by terror", "the horror of the word"; "eyes with grief", "seeing misery greater than his own" , 3) repetition of the verbs of motion: "rushed, crashed the way through, on and on he went, he passed, came to the Park."

Among other means we find substitution (Lord Arthur Savile – he, his; the murder – it, the word, everything) and representation: "Murder! murder! he kept repeating" – "iteration".

Besides, the function of connectors is performed by conjunctions (but, and, yet) Another means of textual cohesion is contrast: "the night was bitter cold, and the gas-lamps round the square flared and flickered in the keen wind; but the hands were hot with fever, and his forehead burned like fire."

The whole piece deals with the description of the main character's agitated state of mind after he had learned his fate. The following lexical units contribute to the thematic unity of the text: face blanched by terror, eyes wild with grief, rushed, crushing his way, seemed not to see or hear anything, his hands were hot with fever, his forehead burned like fire, the gait of a drunken man, misery, could detect the stain of blood, a faint cry, trembling lips, desolate wind, leaned wearily, the horror of the word, shudder, a mad desire.

1. It was 2 p.m. on the afternoon of May 7, 1915. The Lusitania had been struck by two torpedoes in succession and was sinking rapidly, while the boats were being launched with all possible speed. The women and children were being lined up awaiting their turn. Some still clung desperately to husbands and fathers; others clutched their children closely to their breasts. One girl stood alone, slightly apart from the rest. She was quite young, not more than eighteen. She didn't seem afraid, and her grave, steadfast eyes looked straight ahead.

"I beg your pardon."

A man's voice beside her made her start and turn. She had noticed the speaker more than once amongst the first-class passengers. There had been a hint of mystery about him which had appealed to her imagination. He spoke to no one. If anyone spoke to him he was quick to rebuff the overture. Also he had a nervous way of looking over his shoulder with a swift, suspicious glance.

She noticed now that he was greatly agitated. There were beads of perspiration on his brow. He was evidently in a state of overmastering fear. And yet he did not strike her as the kind of man who would be afraid to meet death!

(from A. Christie "The Secret Adversary")

2. My mother was sitting by the fire, but poorly in health, and very low in spirits, looking at it through her tears, and desponding heavily about herself and the fatherless little stranger, who was already welcomed by some grosses of prophetic pins, in a drawer upstairs, to a world not at all excited on the subject of his arrival; my mother, I say, was sitting by the fire, that bright, windy March afternoon, very timid and sad, and very doubtful of ever coming alive out of the trial that was before her, when, lifting her eyes as she dried them, to the window opposite, she saw a strange lady coming up the garden.

My mother had a sure foreboding at the second glance, that it was Miss Betsey. The setting sun was glowing on the strange lady, over the garden fence, and she came walking up to the door with a fell rigidity of figure and composure of countenance that could have belonged to nobody else.

When she reached the house, she gave another proof of her identity. My father had often hinted that she seldom conducted herself like any ordinary Christian; and now, instead of ringing the bell, she came and looked in at that identical window, pressing the end of her nose against the glass to that extent, that my poor dear mother used to say it became perfectly flat and white in a moment.

She gave my mother such a turn, that I have always been convinced I am indebted to Miss Betsey, looking round the room, slowly and inquiringly, began on the other side, and carried her eyes on, like a Saracen's Head in a Dutch clock, until they reached my mother. Then she made a frown and a gesture to my mother, like one who was accustomed to be obeyed, to come and open the door. My mother went.
